Reframing Adolescent Research

Edited by Leo B. Hendry, Professor of Psychology, University of Glamorgan, UK, and Emeritus Professor, University of Aberdeen, UK and Marion Kloep, University of Glamorgan, UK

This ground-breaking volume focuses on the challenges and new directions in adolescent development research. Contributions from world-class academics examine theoretical concerns and methodological challenges to substantive areas in the field, whilst considering innovations and novel approaches to the study of adolescence and development across the lifespan. New theories, methods and interventions are presented that are essential to advancing the project of understanding adolescents, youth and how they develop on a global stage. This is valuable reading for advanced students and researchers in adolescent development and developmental psychology.
