

EPISTEMOLOGICAL ISSUES IN INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

ONLINE WORKSHOP

2 DECEMBER 2022

11:20 A.M. – 3:40 P.M.

(WITH LUNCH BREAK)

The School of International Development at the University of East Anglia will organise a workshop on epistemological issues in international development. This workshop targets PhD students of development. There is no registration fee.

The workshop will outline specific epistemological issues of prominence in development studies and presents three separate sessions on epistemologies of:

- Natural science
- Economics
- Social analysis

Experienced researchers in the respective fields lead the three sessions: Rachel Carmenta (natural science), Bereket Kebede (economics) and Ben Jones (social analysis). Each will give constructive and critical accounts of strengths, weaknesses, and debates around those forms of knowledge, relevant to development studies.

Current PhD development students from any university can register for the workshop by sending an e-mail to Elizabeth Austin at <dev.general@uea.ac.uk>.

Please indicate your university, year and topic of your thesis and insert <Register for epistemology workshop> in the Subject box of your e-mail.
