

Routledge is the world's largest publisher of Global Development books, and you can browse our full collection of titles here. Lecturers can get free inspection copies of all our teaching materials. In the meantime, you can find our 2022 Autumn & Winter collection profiled below. Look out for the open padlock icon on the front cover to find our Open Access content!

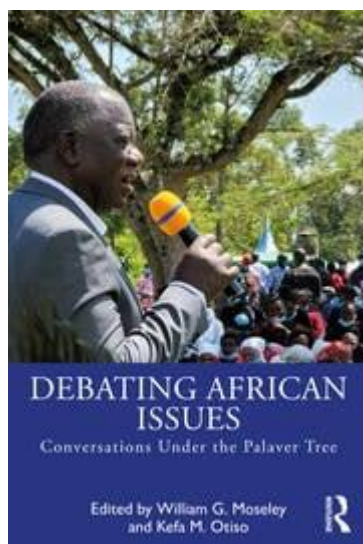

Interested in publishing with us? Contact our Global Development Editor Helena Hurd at Helena.Hurd@tandf.co.uk

The Routledge Handbook on the History of Development

Edited by Corinna R. Unger, Iris Borowy, Corinne A. Pernet

This bold and ambitious handbook is the first systematic overview of the history of development ideas, themes, and actors in the twentieth century. Taking stock of the field, the book reflects on blind spots, points out avenues for future research, and brings together a greater plurality of regions, actors, and approaches than other publications on the subject. Bringing together a range of voices from across the globe, this book will be perfect for advanced students and researchers of international development history.

Debating African Issues: Conversations Under the Palaver Tree

Edited by William G. Moseley, Kefa M. Otiso

This debate style textbook allows students to explore diverse, well-founded views on controversial African issues, pushing them to go beyond superficial interpretations and complicate and ground their understanding of the continent.

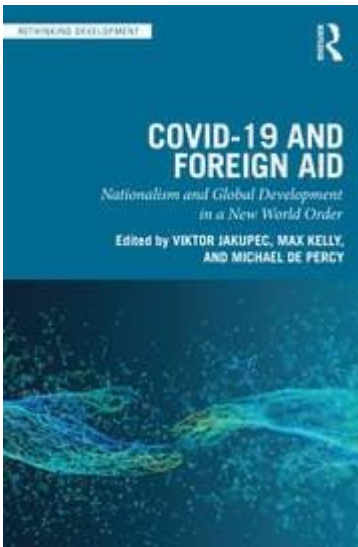

This book is an excellent resource for Africa related courses across a range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary fields including African studies, anthropology, development studies, economics, environmental studies, geography, history, international studies, political science and public health.

City Life in Africa: Anthropological Insights

By Katja Werthmann

"Katja Werthmann's City Life in Africa connects theory firmly to ethnographic practice and shows us how to attend to the subtle turns that culture takes within the urban sphere. It will prove to be a major contribution to African urban studies and all related areas." - Ato Quayson, Professor of Interdisciplinary Studies, Stanford University

COVID-19 and Foreign Aid: Nationalism and Global Development in a New World Order

Edited by Viktor Jakupec, Max Kelly, Michael de Percy

"Financial crises, pandemics, climate change, the growing risk of a nuclear conflagration, the growing assertiveness of China and Russia, and the new Cold War are accelerating the decline of the West's confidence on the world stage. This will see traditional foreign aid and the model of global development that characterised the past 70 years disappear. To understand how this is happening, and how the foreign aid-global development nexus will unfold in coming years, this book is indispensable reading." - Prof. Dr. Wim Naudé, University College Cork, Ireland

Greenland's Stolen Indigenous Children: A Personal Testimony

By Helene Thiesen, Translated by Stephen James Minton

In this book, author Helene Thiesen recounts her experience of being removed from her family in Greenland as a young Inuk child, to be 're-educated' in Denmark and an orphanage in Greenland.

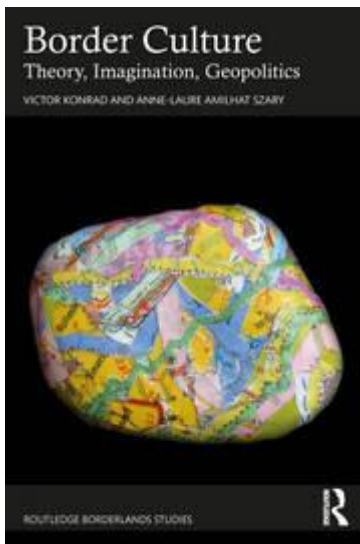

The practice of forcible assimilation of Indigenous children into colonial societies through 'education' has echoes in North America and Australasia, and the painful legacy of these practices remains under-acknowledged. In this poignant book, Helene recounts in detail the process of being taken from her family in 1951, aged seven, along with twenty-one other children, in the attempt to re-make them into 'model Danish citizens', in a social 'experiment' led by the Danish government and Save the Children Denmark.

Critical Approaches to Heritage for Development

Edited by Charlotte Cross, John D. Giblin

"This innovative volume, which draws on a range of perspectives and case studies, demonstrates the synergy of bringing together heritage issues and development studies. The book reveals the myriad ways heritage and development are entangled and challenges the hegemonic practices and assumptions prevalent in each field. The concept of heritage is used to explore conceptualisations and experiences of 'progress' to challenge colonial practices in the Global South. I recommend this book to development and heritage studies scholars and practitioners interested in understanding how social and economic change is managed through appeals to the past that envisage productive and equitable futures." - Laurajane Smith, Director, Centre for Heritage and Museum Studies, the Australian National University, Canberra

Border Culture: Theory, Imagination, Geopolitics

By Victor Konrad, Anne-Laure Amilhat Szary

"With Border Culture, Konrad and Amilhat-Szary are inviting us to reflect on the theory, imagination, and geopolitics of borders. A 'tour de force' into the border literatures, imaginaries and narratives, it is a superb book. A must read for cultural geographers." - Emmanuel Brunet-Jailly, Professor, University of Victoria, Canada

Corporate Governance and Economic Development: Identifying Critical Institutional Reforms

By Anna Lanoszka

This book explores the links between different corporate governance systems and their impact on economic development. It focuses on how institutional reforms, legislative changes and codified measures have influenced performance at the firm and country level. Drawing on detailed cases from the UK, USA, China, India, Poland, Brazil, Russia and South Africa, this book takes a truly international and comparative approach to understanding the relationship between regulatory frameworks and economic development.

Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa

By Pascall Taruvunga

Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa argues that World Heritage Sites (WHS) across the African continent should adopt practical, innovative, creative, and alternative management approaches that bring greater socio-economic benefits to society, whilst protecting their Outstanding Universal Value.

Stakeholder Perspectives on World Heritage and Development in Africa offers unique insights into local perspectives on World Heritage and development in Africa. The book will be essential reading for academics, students, development partners, and practitioners around the world who are interested in museums and heritage, conservation, development, and the African continent.

Geographies of Food and Power

By Amy Trauger

"This is the geography textbook for the class I always wished I'd taken, progressing from introductory concepts to sophisticated analysis over the arc of a semester. With terrific suggestions for supplementary reading, watching, and discussion, Amy Trauger's Geographies of Food and Power is set to become a classic foundation for generations of geographers." - Raj Patel, Research Professor, Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs, The University of Texas at Austin, USA.

Translation as Social Justice: Translation Policies and Practices in Non-Governmental Organisations

By Wine Tesseur

This book analyses the translation policies and practices of international non-governmental organisations (INGOs), engaging in critical questions around the ways in which translation can redress power dynamics between INGOs and the people they work with, and the role of activist researchers in contributing to these debates.

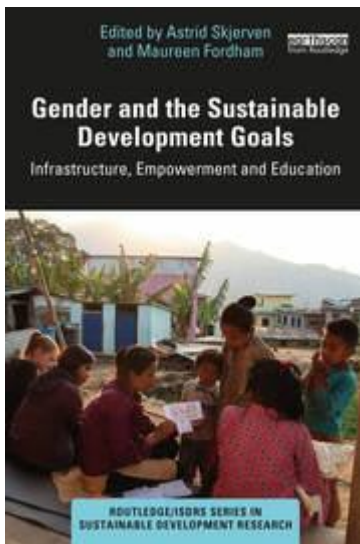

The volume examines the duality of translation and interpreting in INGOs, traditionally undervalued and under-resourced while simultaneously acknowledged as a powerful tool in ensuring these organisations work according to their own values of equal access to information, dialogue, and political representation.

Latin American Politics and Development

Edited by Harvey F. Kline, Christine J. Wade

For over forty years, Latin American Politics and Development has kept instructors and students abreast of current affairs and changes in Latin America. Now in its tenth edition, this authoritative yet accessible introduction has been updated throughout. Organized on a country-by-country basis, Latin American Politics and Development offers instructors maximum flexibility in organizing courses.

Gender and the Sustainable Development Goals: Infrastructure, Empowerment and Education

Edited by Astrid Skjerven, Maureen Fordham

This book sheds light on the important and mostly neglected role that gender plays in achieving the UN Sustainable Development Goals, doing so by investigating three key problem areas: empowerment, education, and infrastructure. The book will generate important discussions in interdisciplinary research and higher education settings focusing on sustainable development, gender, equality, human rights, and education.

A Development Economist in the United Nations: Reasons for Hope

By Richard Jolly

This book explores the joys and occasional frustrations of a development economist working for the United Nations.

From 1982 to 2000 Richard Jolly worked in senior positions in UNICEF and UNDP on assignments that were innovative, for the UN, the countries concerned and for development. The book analyses his experiences as Deputy Director of UNICEF, Principal Coordinator and co-author of UNDP's widely acclaimed Human Development Report and a community development officer in Kenya, as well as his involvement in the UN and country mission to Zambia and ILO employment missions to Colombia, Sri Lanka and Kenya.

Reflecting on the need for international action to be more effective and the UN to be more strongly supported, this volume is a fascinating guide to students and scholars of global governance, development and international organizations and those working for them.

Africa-Europe Cooperation and Digital Transformation

Edited by Chux Daniels, Benedikt Erforth, Chloe Teevan

Africa-Europe Cooperation and Digital Transformation explores the opportunities and challenges for cooperation between Africa and Europe in the digital sphere.

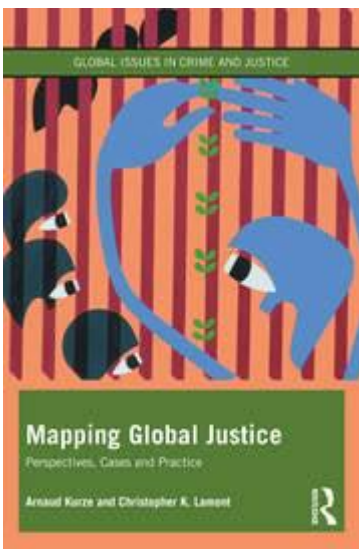

Digitalisation and digital technologies are not only essential for building competitive and dynamic economies; they transform societies, pose immense challenges for policymakers, and increasingly play a pivotal role in global power relations. This book will interest practitioners working in the areas of innovation, digital technologies, and digital entrepreneurship, as well as students and scholars of international relations. It will also be relevant for policymakers, regulators, decision-makers, and leaders in Africa and Europe.

Communicative Justice in the Pluriverse: An International Dialogue

Edited by Joan Pedro-Carañana, Eliana Herrera-Huérffano, Juana Ochoa Almanza

"Communicative Justice in the Pluriverse powerfully demonstrates why decolonizing communications is essential to all pluriversal politics. Methodically organized around the cogent concept of communicative justice, each chapter brilliantly disrupts dominant practices of communicative violence while creatively illuminating multiple paths towards a media ecology indispensable for the flourishing of the pluriverse and a renewed ethics of interdependence and care. The volume's approach is decidedly transnational and inter-epistemic, making it eminently applicable to many fields, from communications, global, and development studies to political ecology and cutting-edge ontologically oriented pursuits." - Arturo Escobar, Emeritus Professor of Anthropology, University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, USA

Mapping Global Justice: Perspectives, Cases and Practice

By Arnaud Kurze, Christopher K. Lamont

"Hugely topical and timely. This far ranging book on global justice engages all of the leading contemporary debates from war and peace to climate change and economic development. It is an essential companion for academic and general audiences alike." - Ruti Teitel, Ernst C Stiefel Professor of Comparative Law, New York Law School

Robotization and Economic Development

By Siddhartha Mitra

'Such a fascinating look at the large, even humongous shifts that are all around us through the lens of history, technology, and economics. Whether you are a student or a professional who wishes to understand how robotization and AI are going to impact our world—this book is for you. Mitra takes a complex subject and connects the dots in ways that are unexpected, surprising, and ultimately very satisfying.' — Dr. Shalini Lal, Future of Work Specialist, UCLA PhD, and Fellow, Wharton, USA

Social Science Perspectives on Global Public Health

Edited by Vincent La Placa, Julia Morgan

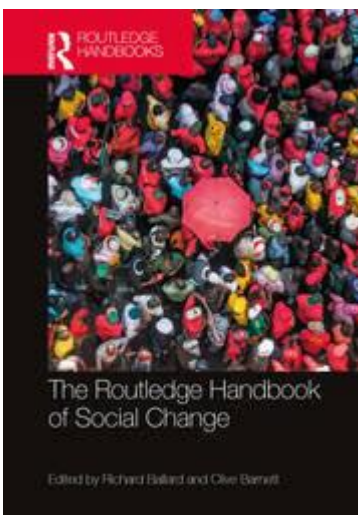

Approaching global health through a social justice lens, this text explores both established and emerging issues for contemporary health and wellbeing. Taking an inclusive, global approach, this is a key text for both undergraduate and postgraduate students of global health, public health, and medical sociology.

The Routledge Handbook on Livelihoods in the Global South

Edited by Fiona Nunan, Clare Barnes, Sukanya Krishnamurthy

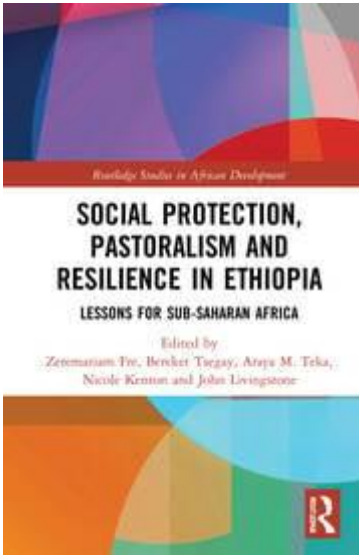

"Across nearly 50 contributions, this Handbook offers a comprehensive survey of the many dimensions of livelihoods research and practice. Rather than separating by sectors, livelihoods perspectives start with what people do and how they live, offering an integrative, holistic approach to development. From concepts to methods to practices and policies, this Handbook offers an excellent overview of ideas as well as practical applications across a huge array of themes. It is an essential guide for anyone interested in livelihoods and development in the Global South, whether students, field practitioners or policymakers." - Ian Scoones, Professor, Institute of Development Studies, University of Sussex, UK.

The Routledge Handbook of Social Change

Edited by Richard Ballard, Clive Barnett

"From activism and the anthropocene to technology and understanding power this is an extraordinary compendium of analytic writing from global contributors and a variety of time frames – with interweaving plot lines involving modes, agents and analytic approaches. And many enlightening pathways for differently minded readers to find and follow." - Ian Gordon, London School of Economics, UK.

Social Protection, Pastoralism and Resilience in Ethiopia: Lessons for Sub-Saharan Africa

Edited by Zeremariam Fre, Bereket Tsegay, Araya M. Teka, Nicole Kenton, John Livingstone

This book investigates the role of social protection amongst African pastoral and agro-pastoral communities, with a particular focus on Ethiopia.

Based on rigorous empirical research, this book assesses the successes, failures, prospects and lessons learned from Africa's largest social security intervention: Ethiopia's Productive Safety Net Programme. It goes beyond an analysis of immediate impacts, exploring factors such as highland-lowland interactions, rural-urban linkages, economic diversification, the role of youth, indigenous safety nets and social capital.

The Belgian Congo as a Developmental State: Revisiting Colonialism

By Emizet François Kisangani

This book challenges assumptions that poor post-colonial economic performance is always a direct product of colonialism by reconsidering the Belgian Congo (1908–1959) as a developmental state.

The book demonstrates that despite the colonial system's economic exploitation and extraction, brutality, excessive taxation, and inequities, the Belgian Congo achieved successes in developing the economy in a short period of time. The Belgian Congo was able to achieve this by investing its higher rates of fiscal revenue in political stability, physical infrastructure, education, and healthcare. By reconsidering the Belgian colonial state as a developmental state, this book encourages scholars to adopt a more nuanced analysis of African history.

Indigenous Health and Well-Being in the COVID-19 Pandemic

Edited by Nicholas D. Spence, Fatih Sekercioglu

This book investigates the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the health and well-being of Indigenous Peoples and assesses the policy responses taken by governments and Indigenous communities across the world.

Bringing together innovative research and policy insights from a range of disciplines, this book investigates the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on the health and well-being of Indigenous Peoples across the world, with coverage of North America, Central America, Africa, and Oceania.

Child Rights and Displacement in East Africa: Agency and Spatial Justice in Planning Policy

By Cherie C. Enns, Willibard J. Kombe

Focusing on the intersection of spatial justice, child rights, and planning policy, this book investigates the challenges of resettlement in East Africa, where half of those displaced are children.

Focusing on the intersection of spatial justice, child rights, and planning policy, this book investigates the challenges of resettlement in East Africa, where half of those displaced are children.

Contemporary Governance Challenges in the Horn of Africa

Edited by Charles Manga Fombad, Assefa Fiseha, Nico Steytler

This book argues that a leading cause of the political instability in the Horn of Africa is a crisis of governance, caused by extreme centralization of power, weak institutions, and the failure to institutionalise the responsible use of authority.

Demonstrating that the threats of further fragmentation and conflict due to the crisis of governance are likely to continue unless serious steps are taken to deal with the situation, the book will be an important read for researchers and policy makers with an interest in peacemaking, politics, constitutional law, and federalism in the region.

Leadership and Organisational Culture in Development: Challenging Exceptionalism

By Violeta Schubert

This book uses organisational theory to explore how power and leadership operate in development organisations in different contexts and at different levels.

Culture as a tool for enacting change is of particular importance within organisational and leadership analysis but often limiting. Notions of exceptionalism within the development sector mean that lessons from other organisational contexts are often disregarded or deemed irrelevant. In examining the way that culture operates in organisational and leadership analysis and in development thinking and approaches, the book invites closer attention to modes of organising and leading. The book examines development exceptionalism and the leadership fetishism that it evokes as a panacea for addressing disorder and crisis.

Religion and Gender-Based Violence: Global and Local Responses to Harmful Practices

Edited by Brenda Bartelink, Chia Longman, Tamsin Bradley

This book takes religion as an entry point for a deeper exploration into why practices of gender-based violence continue and what possible actions might help to contribute to their eradication.

Centralising the perspectives of women themselves, this book will be an important read for development practitioners and policy makers, as well as for researchers across religious studies, gender studies, and global development.

Development-Induced Displacement and Resettlement in Vietnam: Exploring the State – People Nexus

Edited by Nguyen Quy Nghi, Jane Singer

This book explores the complex legal, cultural, economic and human rights issues associated with development-induced displacement and resettlement (DIDR) in Vietnam.

Combining the latest evidence and research findings on development-induced displacement and resettlement in Vietnam with practical experiences in project implementation, this book will be a useful guide for researchers across development, migration, and Southeast Asian Studies, as well as practitioners and policy makers. Its lessons will also be relevant to other countries facing rapid development.

Gendered Spaces, Religion and Migration in Zimbabwe: Implications for Economic Development

Edited by Ezra Chitando, Sophia Chirongoma, Molly Manyonganise

This book explores the intersections of gender, religion and migration within the context of post-independent Zimbabwe, with a specific focus on how gender disparities impact economic development. By demonstrating how these interconnections impact women's and girls' lived realities, the book addresses the need for gender equity, gender inclusion and gender mainstreaming in both religious and societal institutions.

Contributing to ongoing scholarly debates on gender in Africa, this book will be of interest to academics and students of Gender Studies, Women's Studies, African Studies, Development Studies as well as advocates of human rights and gender activists.

Sustainable Development in Post-Pandemic Africa: Effective Strategies for Resource Mobilization

Edited by Fred Olayele, Yiagadeesen Samy

With both domestic and external financing expected to dry up in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, this book argues that there is a need for fresh ideas and new strategies for achieving sustainable development in Africa.

In addition to triggering the most severe recession in nearly a century, the COVID-19 pandemic has disrupted global value chains, causing unprecedented damage to healthcare systems, economies, and well-being, hitting the world's most vulnerable people the hardest. This book argues that now, as the continent emerges from the current crisis, it will be important to reconfigure current financing sources under a forward-looking framework that incorporates other non-traditional financing tools and mechanisms such as public-private partnerships, sovereign wealth funds, gender lens investing, new growth drivers, and emerging and disruptive technologies.

European Civil Society and International Development Aid: Organisational Incentives and NGO Advocacy

By Balázs Szent-Iványi

This book explains how and why European non-governmental development organisations (NGDOs) engage in advocacy towards the European Union (EU).

Drawing on a range of quantitative and qualitative data sets to provide a rich and varied picture of the advocacy work of European development NGOs, European Civil Society and International Development Aid is a key reference for researchers and practitioners working in the field.

Africa's Economic Partnership with China: An Holistic Analysis

By Mussie Delelegn Arega

This book examines how increasing Africa-China relations in the fields of trade, development finance and investment have impacted productive capacities and structural economic transformation in sub-Saharan Africa (SSA).

This book will be of interest to researchers, policymakers, advisors, academics, and practitioners with an interest in development in Africa, and China's increasing role in the continent.

Socioeconomic Shocks and Africa's Development Agenda: Lessons and Policy Directions in a Post-COVID-19 Era

Edited by Evans Osabuohien, Gbadebo Odularu, Daniel Ufua, Romanus Osabohien

This book investigates how African countries respond to socioeconomic shocks, drawing out lessons to help to inform future policy and development efforts.

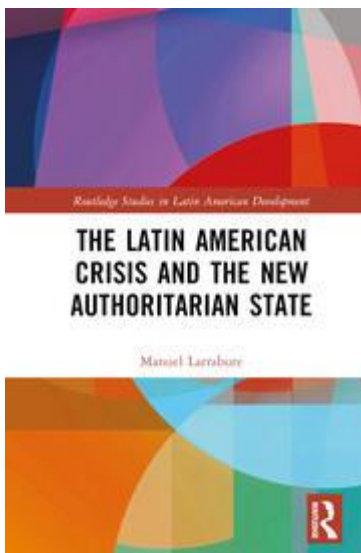

The challenges posed by the COVID-19 pandemic affected all sectors of the economy, exposing substantial structural weaknesses and complexities in supply chains and logistics across the African continent. This book examines the disruptive impact of the pandemic across Africa. However, it also goes beyond the current crisis to investigate how socioeconomic pressures in general impact commodity prices, national budgeting processes, food, business, energy sectors, education, health, and sanitation.

Non-State Actors and Sustainable Development in Brazil: The Diffusion of the 2030 Agenda

By Eduardo Gonçalves Gresse

"This book presents provocative and stimulating insights about the challenges to implement the SDGs, to overcome political setbacks, and strengthen commitments towards sustainable development. The Brazilian case is particularly interesting given its central role in supporting or undermining worldwide efforts to raise awareness of and take action on the global socio-ecological crisis." - Pedro Roberto Jacobi, Professor, Universidade de São Paulo, Brazil

The Latin American Crisis and the New Authoritarian State

By Manuel Larrabure

This book provides a fresh interpretation of the rise and fall of Latin America's 'left turn', or movement towards more progressive economic or social policies. From a historical and comparative perspective, the book argues that Latin America is entering a new phase of authoritarian statism.

This book will be of interest to researchers across politics, development, Latin American studies and social movement studies. The original data and analysis of the relationship between social movements and governments will also benefit policymakers and those working within the NGO sector.

Development and Women's Reproductive Health in Ghana, 1920-1982

By Holly Ashford

This book investigates the history of women's reproductive health in Ghana, arguing that between the 1920s and 1980s, it was largely driven by discourses of development and population control rather than a concern for women's health or rights.

This book will have an important impact on a number of historical fields including Ghanaian history, global health history, global histories of population and family planning and histories of development. It will be of interest to researchers and students in the history of public health, development, Africa, Ghana and gender.

Global Development in the Arctic: International Cooperation for the Future

Edited by Andrey Mineev, Anatoli Bourmistrov, Frode Mellemvik

Viewing the Arctic as a key region for global development in the 21st century, this book offers a cross-disciplinary conceptual framework for understanding what international cooperation is, why it is difficult and what kind of alternative views can apply in the Arctic.

Filling the gap in analytical understanding of international cooperation, this book will be of interest to academics, students and professionals concerned with global development and the Arctic region.

European Union Communities of Practice: Diplomacy and Boundary Work in Ukraine

By Maren Hofius

This book provides a practice-based analysis of European Union (EU) diplomacy and community-building.

Unlike studies focusing on how EU community-building proceeds centrally in Brussels, this book turns to EU diplomacy in its bordering state of Ukraine. Using the case of an EU diplomatic 'community of practice' in Kyiv, Ukraine, takes these questions to the EU's margins, highlighting that the boundaries of community are key sites in which community materialises. The in-depth case study identifies diplomats' 'boundary work' as the constitutive rule that makes the local 'community of practice' cohere and create feelings of belonging to the large-scale polity of the EU.

Quality Assessment and Enhancement in Higher Education in Africa

Edited by Peter Neema-Abooki

This book explores quality assessment and enhancement in higher education in Africa to illustrate the need to develop quality practices in measuring effective education and continually search for permanent improvement.

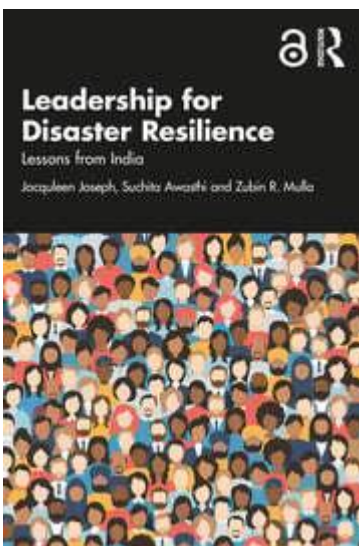

Illustrating why quality assessment and enhancement should be embraced in all aspects including inputs, processes, outputs and outcomes in educational settings globally, this book will be of interest to policymakers and scholars in the fields of Higher Education, Quality and Global Studies, African Education, African Studies and Management and Administration, Leadership and Professional Development Studies.

The Sustainable Development Goals: Diffusion and Contestation in Asia and Europe

Edited by Paul Bacon, Mina Chiba, Frederik Ponjaert

There have been significant efforts to implement the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) at multiple levels of governance across all regions of the world. However, the manner in which the global governance norms underlying the SDGs are actually being diffused is under-researched and not well understood. This book considers the promotion of the SDGs through the lens of norm diffusion theory, with a focus on three SDG policy areas; health, education and decent work.

Leadership for Disaster Resilience: Lessons from India

By Jacquleen Joseph, Suchita Awasthi, Zubin R. Mulla

This book comprehensively conceptualises disaster resilience leadership within the macro context of a risk society. Leadership for disaster resilience has gained prominence in the face of global environmental change, and the need for collaboration, integration, and synergy in addressing this crisis is starker than ever. Drawing on case studies from across India, the volume focuses on leaderships of individuals, bureaucratic and political actors, civil society actors, and institutions.

Clusters and Sustainable Regional Development: A Meta-Organisational Approach

Edited by Evgeniya Lupova-Henry, Nicola Francesco Dotti

Clusters and Sustainable Regional Development conceptualises the role of organised clusters in the transition towards sustainability. It introduces a novel perspective on these clusters, viewing them as deliberate collective actors within their environments that can become the driving force for transformation in their regions or nations.

This text introduces a new set of ideas and questions at the intersection of economic geography, regional and cluster studies, organisation and management, policy and governance research. It will appeal to researchers from these diverse fields seeking to further develop the meta-organisational view of clusters as well as conceptualise their role in sustainability transitions.

Environmental Economics in Developing Countries: Issues and Challenges

Edited by Achiransu Acharyya

The COVID-19 pandemic has laid bare the vulnerabilities of socio-economic systems globally and exposed the risks that natural capital degradation imposes on human health, economy, and society. This book studies the environmental challenges faced by developing economies in a post-COVID-19 world.

An important contribution to the study of environmental economics of the Global South, the book will be of interest to students and researchers of economics, environment, development studies, development economics, environmental policies, and South Asia studies. It will also be useful for policymakers and NGOs working in this field.

Ecological Imperialism, Development, and the Capitalist World-System: Cases from Africa and Asia

By Mariko Lin Frame

Two major trends are currently challenging the sustainability of human civilization: extreme inequality and the ecological crisis. This book argues that these are intrinsically linked by further exploring the complex relationships between global ecological crises, neoliberal globalization, orthodox development policies, and imperialism.

This volume will be of keen interest to scholars and students of political economy, critical development studies, environmental sociology, and political ecology.

China's Aid, Trade and Investment to Africa: Interaction and Coordination

Edited by Wang Xinying

Adopting perspectives from development economics and international relations, this book researches the ongoing cooperation between China and African countries and the interactive system of China's aid, trade and investment to and with Africa.

This book will appeal to researchers, students and policy makers interested in Chinese politics and foreign policy, African politics, international relations, international diplomacy and the world economy.

Migration and Development in India: The Bihar Experience

By Amrita Datta

This book deals with a wide range of issues related to rural-urban migration in the context of neoliberal economic development in India. It shows how, contrary to the results of conventional data sources such as the Census and NSSO, that mobility is high in rural Bihar, and has significantly increased over time as a result of rising labour demand in distant urban markets elsewhere in India.

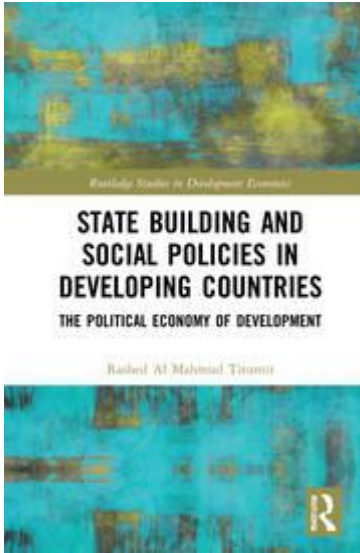

Combining quantitative and qualitative methods in development research, this book will be of great interest to scholars and researchers of development studies, migration studies, development economics, sociology, demography, public policy, and South Asian studies.

Negotiating Gender Expertise in Environment and Development: Voices from Feminist Political Ecology

Edited by Bernadette Resurrección, Rebecca Elmhirst

"Understanding how change happens in environmental policy and practice in development organizations could scarcely be more urgent today. This book provides a fascinating and critical view into the world of 'gender experts', those who are simultaneously charged with transforming their institutions, while also coming up with policy 'asks', win-wins, technical fixes, and killer facts. By reflecting on their dilemmas, strategies and compromises, this book provides the inspiration and the insights that feminists need to continue chipping away at for change 'from within.'" -
- Laura Turquet, Policy Advisor, UN Women and co-founder of the UN Feminist Network

State Building and Social Policies in Developing Countries: The Political Economy of Development

By Rashed Al Mahmud Titumir

This book moves away from the orthodox neoliberal paradigm to suggest a new framework linking social policy with citizenship and transformation. The interjection of nation building, public society and public provisioning to the study of education, healthcare and employment caters to the needs of citizens equitably. By combining and coagulating these three broad arenas of politico-economic discussion, this book takes a new approach to the analysis of social policymaking in developing countries to indicate the drivers and triggers of transformation. It makes comprehensive, thorough critical comparisons between the trajectories of developed and developing countries, finds out the gaps in transformation and suggests drivers for changes.